THE GREATEST BATTLE COMING.

EVIDENCE PEACE WILL FOLLOW.

Buller Will Begin Moving Monday---The Great Fight to Occur on the Vaal---Boers Placing Big Guns---Peace Expected on the Queen's Birthday---Boer Government Wants the Sun's Help.

By Wire to the Telegram.

London, May 18.—That the biggest battle of the entire war will be fought south of the Vaal river next week is now considered certain. Roberts is bringing his vast accumulation of supplies from Kroonstadt. Railway repairers are working night and day putting in sidings, as this will be a source of supply for the next few weeks.

The Boers are massing at Rhenosster spruit, near the Vaal river. Heavy guns are being sent from the interior and placed on high ground commanding the approaches to the Vaal at Rhenosster spruit. Robert's advance will begin Monday.

A Lorenzo Marques special of the date of yesterday says that the last five hundred refugees who arrived there agree in stating that Mafeking has been relieved. The end of the war is anticipated on the Queen's birthday, May 24. It is stated at the war office that up till 8 o'clock this morning no news han been received from Mafeking.

FROM THE QUEEN.

Daunhauser, May 18.—Buller entered Daunhauser yesterday morning. A number of rebels found in their homes were arrested. Buller received a message from the Queen congratulating him on taking Dundee and expressing appreciation of the work of the troops.

WANTS THE SUN'S HELP.

New York, May 18.—A special from Pretoria, of the 15th, by Lorenzo Marquez, 17th, says that the recent reverses in the Orange Free State have had the most depressing effect on the Boers. The correspondent of the Sun has reason to believe that the Boers will presently sue for peace. The government asked the Sun correspondent to invoke the Sun's help to secure intervention by the United States.

BIG NEW TOBACCO COMPANY.

Brown Brothers and P. H. Hanes, of Winston, are in the New Organization—The New Company Starts With 12 Factories. With a Capacity of 18,000,000 Pounds.

New York, May 17—The formation of the new opposition tobacco company has now been practically completed and articles of incorporation will be filed at Trenton within a few days. The new concern will be known as the International Tobacco Company. It will be incorporated under the laws of New Jersey, with a capital of $25,000,000, consisting of 125,000 shares of 6 per cent. noncumulative preferred stock and an equal number of shares of common stock, all of the par value of $100 each. There will be no bonded debt. The papers which have already been executed and signed, were drawn up by Counter Brothers, of this city. Among the incorporators mentioned are some of the best known individual manufacturers in the United States, including David Dunlop and David Dunlop, Jr., of the Dunlop Tobacco Company, of Petersburg, Va., said to be the largest exporters of manufactured tobacco in the world; Brown Brothers, of Winston, N. C., and George Cameron, of Petersburg, Va., P. H. Hanes, of Winston, N. C., and E. C. Venable, of Petersburg.

The main offices of the new concern will be in New York. It is believed the leading spirits in the enterprise will be George Arents and H. L Torrell, both of whom were active in the affairs of the American Tobacco Company. Mr. Arents was treasurer of the company until a fortnight ago, when he resign- to go abroad on a visit of pleasure, it was said. His trip to Europe has, however, been postponed.

The capitalization of the new company is based on the expectation of 10 per cent. dividends, as indicated by the earnings of the constituent companies for the last year. The International company will at the start control twelve factories, with a capacity of 18,000,000 pounds, exclusive of cigarettes. To the manufacture of the latter $5,000,000 of the capital stock will be devoted. The new company will take over a new cigarette machine controlled by Mr. Buchanan, who was formerly at the head of the Buchanan & Lyall firm.

American Tobacco sold down to 86 today in the stock market and closed at 86⅝, a net decline for the day of 5¾ per cent. Continental Tobacco closed at 23, a net loss of 1½ per cent.

COL. WADDELL HERE.

He Will Engage in the Campaign and Will Speak in Greensboro.

Col. A. M. Waddell, of Wilmington, was here for a short while yesterday evening. He had lectured in Oxford and Henderson and was on his way to Charlotte, where today he delivered the address at the commencement exercises of the graded schools of that city.

Col. Waddell told the Telegram that he expected to enter actively in the present campaign, making speeches all over western North Carolina. It is his intention to begin about June 5th, making the first speech in Greensboro.

The mere announcement that Col. Waddell is to speak will draw immense crowds, for he is known throughout the State as one of North Carolina's most gifted and brilliant orators. He has rendered valiant service for Democracy in the past, and the people will rejoice to know that he is to be in the forefront of the fight this year.

Funeral of Mr. Fitzmaurice.

The funeral of the late Mr. John R. Fitzmaurice will be held at St. Andrew's Episcopal church tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock. The remains will be interred in the burying ground at Guilford College.

The deceased had resided in Greensboro for a number of years and was held in the highest esteem by all who knew him. He was a quiet, unobtrusive citizen and a perfect gentleman. He was a sincere Christian and a faithful member of the Episcopal church.

SURRY DEMOCRATS AROUSED.

GRAND OVATIONS TO MR. AYCOCK

Judge Adams' Brother Heads a Horse-Back Procession and Carries a White Supremacy Flag--Mr. Graves Brings Encouraging News--Democratic Victory in the Air.

Mr. S. Porter Graves, chairman of the Democratic executive committee of Surry county, is in the city today and tells the Telegram that Hon. Charles B. Aycock was given two magnificent ovations by the people of his county yesterday and Wednesday. Not since the days of Vance has a man been accorded so enthusiastic a reception at the hands of the people of Surry.

Wednesday night Mr. Aycock spoke in the opera house in Mt. Airy to a packed auditorium, delivering one of his best speeches. So charmed were they with the speaker that yesterday a large number of the citizens of the town accompanied him twelve miles across the mountains to Dobson. In the procession were several hacks filled with some of Mt. Airy's fairest daughters.

Three miles from Dobson the party was met by a horse-back procession of two hundred and fifty or three hundred men headed by ex-Sheriff J. A. Adams, a brother of the Republican nominee for Governor. The ex-Sheriff carried a huge white supremacy banner, which he waved over the carriage containing Mr. Aycock, saluting him as the next Governor of North Carolina. Jack Adams, though a brother to Spencer, is a most enthusiastic Democrat and never tires of serving his party. It was fitting that he should head the procession that met Aycock.

At Dobson Mr. Aycock spoke from the court house steps, the square being filled by a great throng of people, who listened to the speaker with the most intense earnestness. Mr. Graves says that never before had he seen a crowd of people pay such rapt attention to a speaker. They stood as if rooted to the spot, and when Mr. Aycock concluded his speech they gave him such an ovation as can be given only by those sturdy mountaineers.

If there was before any doubt, those two speeches made Surry solid for Aycock and the amendment.

Mr Graves brings good Democratic news from his county and section. He says the reports that the West is in doubt are false, so far as his county is concerned at any rate. Notwithstanding the fact that Republican postmasters and revenue officers have been most actively engaged in circulating all kinds of literature and false reports, Democrats are united for the amendment. When the bill to submit the amendment to a vote of the people for ratification was passed by the Legislature the measure was popular, and the more the people study the matter, the more enthusiastic do they grow in supporting it.

The amendment is more popular today, Mr. Graves says, than it was three weeks ago, and Democratic victory is in the very air.

"Concerning of a Well."

Before Justice Eckle this morning J. W. Richardson was tried for false pretense upon a warrant sworn out by R. T. Causey. The complainant bought a house and lot of the defendant with the understanding that a nearby well was a part of the property. Afterwards Mr. Richardson claimed the well as his property and refused to allow Mr. Causey the use of it.

Mr. O. S. Newlin appeared for the complainant, Col. John N. Staples representing the defendant. After hearing and considering the evidence, 'Squire Eckle bound Mr. Richardson over to the Superior Court under a bond of $100.

Sermons to be Published.

At the request of the session of the First Presbyterian church three doctrinal sermons recently preached by the pastor, Rev. Dr. Smith, on "The Westminster Confession of Faith, "The Fruits of Calvinism" and "America's Debt to Calvinism" will be published in pamphlet form for distribution among the members of the church.

The sermon on the Confession of Faith was reported at length in the Telegram of the 7th inst.

CLAUDE KITCHIN HERE.

A Brother of Our Congressman and One of the Brightest Young Democrats in the State.

Mr. Claude Kitchin, of Halifax county, a brother of Congressman W. W. Kitchin, spent the forenoon here, leaving for home on the eastbound train this afternoon. He was on his return from the western part of the State, where he has been speaking in behalf of Democracy.

Mr. Kitchin is one of the brightest and most eloquent young Democrats in North Carolina and has rendered valiant service to his party. Endowed with a superior intellect and great force of character, he is recognized as one of the most effective campaign orators in the State.

His name is prominently mentioned in connection with the nomination for Congress in the Second District by the convention to meet next Thursday. It would afford his friends much pleasure to see him thus honored.

TWO CONSECRATIONS.

St. Mary's Chapel and St. Andrew's Church to be Dedicated.

St. Mary's Chapel near the State Normal and Industrial College, will be consecrated tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, consecration services will be conducted at St. Andrew's church, Arlington street. Bishop Joseph Blount Cheshire will conduct the exercises on both occasions.

The public generally is cordially invited to attend both services, especially those who so generously aided in paying off the indebtedness on St. Andrew's.

The members of the congregation have worked long and faithfully in building and paying for their beautiful little church and have made many sacrifices. It is a matter of pride to them that they can now see the church formally dedicated to the service of God, free of debt.

On a Sad Mission.

Mr. W. H. Odom, a member of the revenue force at this place, received a message yesterday eveng stating that his infant child was dying and calling him to his home at McFarland, Anso county. He had just returned on the Raleigh train from a trip through Alamance county when the message was handed to him. He boarded the 7:10 train for home.

Mr. Odom was a member of the State Senate from the Twenty-sixth district.

Some temperance people of Boston are considering the feasibility of establishing a hospital in Boston in which no alcoholic medicines shall be used. They say that the Temperance Hospital of London, established in 1873, and the Temperance Hospital of Chicago, established in 1884, have been successful in their treatment of patients, and their death rate is lower than that of the ordinary hospitals.

MORE OF THE CUBAN POSTAL FRAUDS

The Havana Postmaster Ordered Books and Accounts Destroyed to Shield Neely. He and His Two Cuban Clerks Released on Reduced Bonds.

Havana, May 17. — The principal charge against the Havana postmaster, E. P. Thompson, who, with W. H. Reeves, deputy auditor of the island, and Edward Moya and Jorge Mascaro, Cuban clerks in the stamp department, was arrested yestarday, will be that he entered into a conspiracy with Carrydon Rich, the clerk who has confessed to a knowledge of many of the transactions, and who will give evidence for the government to shield C. F. W. Neely, the arrested financial agent of posts.

The prosecution says Thompson deliberately received vouchers and ordered that the changes be made in the books and accounts with the manifest intention of shielding Neely. Moya and Mascaro admit selling over $1,800 worth of an old issue of stamps through the windows which were not called for in the requisition. Thompson says that though he ordered the alteration of certain figures at the request of Rich, still he did so without knowing that they were of a criminal nature. He thinks he may have been treated with more consideration—either dismissed or requested to resign. Thompson's bail was first fixed at $10,000 cash, but ultimately reduced to $1,000, which was deposited in cash by the Danish consul; Herr Culmell, a wealthy merchant. The bail of Moya and Mascaro has been reduced to $1,500, which has not yet been furnished.

Reeves will be allowed to remain at his own home in charge of special agents. During the investigations now in progress he will be called daily to give evidence, and it is also felt that bail required of him would be heavy and probably would not be obtainable.

It is reported here that Neely has admitted that his bail deposit was his own money and a request will be made for the seizure of that amount as belonging to the postal department, should it be proven that the funds came out of his own pocket. It is also felt in the circumstances, his bail is excessively light. Although he was first charged with peculations to the amount of $36,000, it is now believed that he obtained the larger part of the $100,000, which is said to cover the defalcation.

The special agent, who is making inquiries at Baracoa, reports that the postmaster there has been acting as a business representative of Neely, and has received from him during the last few months $12,500 for a cocoanut grove and coffee plantation. No suspicion rests upon the Baracoa postmaster.

Messrs. Smith and Fosner, the inspectors who arrived yesterday, have been examining Mr. Lathbone. This afternoon they were in conference with Gen. Wood for more than an hour, and then examined Reeves.

Lawn Party Tonight.

The rain of last night interfered with the firemen's lawn party, but arrangements have been made to have it tonight, rain or shine. If the ground is not too wet it will be given on the Eckle lawn, otherwise the Banner Warehouse will be used.

The firemen hope and expect to be liberally patronized. Go and help to make the lawn party a great success.

The Southern Presbyterian General Assembly met in Atlanta yesterday. Judge J. W. Martin, of Little Rock, was elected moderator, two ballots being required to elect him, in which Dr. Geo. W. Tinley, of Fisherville, Va., and Dr. R. C. Reed, of Columbia, S. C., were also candidates. This is the second time in the history of the body that an elder has been elected moderator.

"No, Harold, I wouldn't marry the best man on earth." "All right Marjorie, anything you wish, but don't you think it will be a bit uncomfortable to be married in a balloon?"

The weather office records in Chicago show that the 25th of April has been clear in that city for twenty-five years past, not a drop of rain having fallen there on that day since 1875.

CAUSE OF SCALES' FAILURE.

MR. JOHNSON'S WORD REGARDING IT

It Was Freely Said That it Would Not Have Occurred Had He Been Supported---The Cutting Down of Men Made a Sickening Sight.

To the Editor of the Telegram:

MacRae, Cooke and Lane, with their brigades, well merited all the honor Major Stedman gave them, and much more. Their fighting qualities were a well known quantity in the army of Northern Virginia and a known fact with the boys in blue as well. Gen. MacRae being the central character in Major Stedman's address, the first attack did not come within the scope of his address, therefore it is of said attack, and why it failed, that I wish to say just a few words.

Scales' brigade was composed of the 13th, 16th, 22d, 34th and 38th N. C. regiments. Curs, the 22d, had with others one company, i.e., Company E from Guilford, three companies, I, L and M from Randolph.

The first attacking column was composed of Scales' brigade and a South Carolina brigade. The line was formed in the woods west of the railroad, with Scales on the left, the 22d on the right, next the South Carolina brigade. The railroad ran through a cut along our entire front, and for some distance further to the right, the bank was all sufficient for breastworks to protect infantry. There had been a lot of dirt carted from the cut, and dumped west of the road in a circular shape, ways had been cut in this dirt, and a powerful battery put in position just in front of our right. I never saw so nearly every man in his place, nor a better spirit prevail, on the eve of a battle when the line moved forward to the edge of the open field. There was to be a quick rush for the Federal line, with fixed bayonets, and fire reserved until the breastworks were reached. Scales' Brigade sprang forward when the command was given. When we were in a few paces of the Federal line, it was observed that we had no support on the right. The brigade expected to cooperate with us stopped in the edge of the woods, never entered the open field, although Scales' Brigade could have been on the railroad in one minute from the point we had reached, but still had we done so, with General Miles' division on our front, and either flank a powerful battery enfilading our entire line, our brigade would have been almost annihilated, and little accomplished. A hasty retreat was the only remedy in sight. Changing a grand (and had we had the expected support) a glorious victory into a hasty retreat, caused a momentary halt, right under the Federal guns. It almost makes me sick today to think of the noble young men who went down under that concentrated fire.

There were five men killed in my company (L) in ten paces of the line, amongst whom were Dennis Fox, of Randolph, Joe McClelland, and —— McLauren, of Richmond county.

I am not going to say why the line to our right failed to move forward, it is too late after 36 years, to bring charges against them, but it is not too late to say what was freely said then, had either one of the brigades that composed the final assaulting column been on Scales' right, a second charge would never have been necessary.

The battle of Ream's Station was no little Spanish-American war scrap. The Federals admited a loss of about 4,000 men, 7 battle flags, and five pieces of artillery.

After Maj. Stedman's just and interesting remarks about Cooke, Lane, and MacRae, it would only be natural for young men of today to ask why did Scales fail, where the other North Carolina troops named succeeded. This is the cause of the present explanation.

Juvenile Statistician.

"How many children had George Washington?" asked the teacher, thinking to trip up the new boy in his history.

"About 3,000,000," promptly answered the new boy, who knew something concerning the statistics of the period when the Father of His Country was at the head of the family.—Chicago Tribune.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

Yes, August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mothers and grandmothers never thought of using anything else for indigestion or biliousness. Doctors were scarce, and they seldom heard of appendicitis, nervous prostration or heart failure, etc. They used August Flower to clean out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and othaches. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to moke you satisfied there is nothing serious the matter with you. For sale by Grissom & Fordham.

BARKER CALLS ON McKINLEY.

The Middle-of-the-Road Candidate in the White House.

Washington, May 17—Mr. Wharton Barker, the nominee for President of the United States by the middle-of-the-road Populists, called on President McKinley today to pay his respects. These gentlemen have known each other ever since the latter entered public life. Later on Mr. Barker said to a representative of the Associated Press that his nomination at Cincinnati makes the nomination of Mr. Bryan by the Democrats impossible.

"In the last presidential election," he said, "Mr. Bryan received about 6,500,000 votes. Of this number at least 2,000,000, were Populists. This year I will get 1,500,000, or possibly 1,750,000 of that number. This will cut Mr. Bryan's vote to 5,000,000 or less. Where is he going to get the other votes necessary to elect him? It is estimated that Mr. McKinley received 1,500,000 votes from the Democratic ranks four years ago. These will not go to Bryan this year to make up his loss of Populist votes. If Gorman or some other Eastern man should be nominated by the Democrats this year, he would carry New York, New Jersey, Maryland and Delaware in the East, not to count doubtful States elsewhere. The fight this year will be made on the money question. Transportation, expansion and other live subjects will make up the issues."

The Real Puzzle of Life.

Fidelia—Flavilla, doesn't the great mystery of our being fill you with awe and wonder?

Flavilla—Well, to tell you the honest truth, Fidelia, what to wear bothers me more than anything else

E. Spencer Blackburn, assistant United States district attorney, was yesterday nominated for Congress by the Republicans of the Eighth District in convention at Wilkesboro.

All who take part in the Spinsters Convention will please meet at the Academy of Music this evening at 7:30 sharp.

Cowboy Blacksmithing.

"Up at my camp near the Four Peaks," told Jim Bark, the well known cattleman, "the boys are all handy with a rifle. We've a lot of guns up there. Most of the new guns were bought during the Spanish war, when we would experiment all day with tree trunks and rough trenches, learning the art of war at home. We found that a bullet from one of the new Winchesters, driven by smokeless powder, was good for four feet and more of pine timber and for more than an inch of iron.

"I thought the boys had done about everything in the shooting line that could be done long ago, but I was mistaken. I sent them up a wagon. In hauling down some firewood they broke the bolsters all to flinders. The bolsters hold up the wagon bed, you know. Well, the boys figured out all right the rebuilding of the wood parts, but came near being stumped on the iron fixings. They got some old iron wagon tires and cut them in proper lengths, but hadn't a way that they could see to punch the necessary bolt holes. Finally the question was solved. One of the boys carefully marked the places for the bolts, stood the piece of tire against a tree and put a bullet, 30 caliber, through the tire at each place marked. It was a novel sort of blacksmithing, but it worked."—Arizona Grapevine.

Garland and the Virginian.

Cleveland's first attorney general, Garland—a specimen of what Lincoln called the plain people—was born in Arkansas and "raised" in blue jeans. One day, at the department of justice, he received a visit from a Virginia gentleman of aristocratic manner, who bored him horribly with talk about "first families."

"It seems to me, suh," said the visitor at last, "that there are Gyarlands in No'th Ca'lina. I once met a gentleman named Henry Gyarland, from that state. May I ask, suh, if he was a relative of yours?"

"First cousin," replied Mr. Garland shortly. "He was hanged for horse stealing."

A look of ill conceived horror and disgust came over the visitor's countenance. Then, drawing on his gloves, he rose to his feet, took up his hat, and, waving a hand toward the walls of the room, said: "A fine collection of portraits you have here, Mr. Gyarland. Your predecessors in office, I presume?"

"Yes," grunted Mr. Garland. The Virginian stalked out, evidently glad to make his escape, and the attorney general, turning to his chief clerk, grinned and remarked:

"He'll never bother me any more."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Stole Watch to Get Square.

"Great Scott, but that's a fine watch!" came from the chorus. "Where'd you ever get it?" "Stole it," answered its possessor calmly. "You don't believe me, do you?" he went on. "Well, I'll tell you how it happened. I was on a western district which enjoyed the reputation of being the toughest one covered by the house. I had some time to kill and so went into one of the gambling joints. It isn't necessary to go into details as to what happened. As luck would have it, there were a half dozen others in the place besides myself who might be considered as possible victims.

"When the time came, the lights were put out suddenly, and then we had 'rough house' for about ten minutes. In the middle of it I felt somebody grab my watch and reached after him. I caught some one and felt that he was just putting a watch in his trousers pocket. I gave his wrist a hard wrench and got the timepiece. Then I broke away. When I got to the light, I found the watch was this one. And as I never heard from the owner I have kept it to compensate for the loss of mine."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Both Told the Truth.

"Truth compels me to state," said the presiding officer of a medical congress, "that upon the list of physicians present just read there is one that is no gentleman."

A stir of surprise passed over the assemblage at this, and one man upon whose foot, as the presiding officer said afterward, the shoe seemed to be a perfect fit half rose from his seat. But in another moment a woman's voice from the back part of the hall made itself heard.

"I quite agree with Dr. Blank," said the voice, "for I am that physician. In my turn I must say, however, that Dr. Blank is no lady."

Moro Polygamy.

Polygamy is the Moro's by religion and divine right. A Moro must give a separate house to each wife, in which she is supposed to set up housekeeping, with a sufficient number of women slaves to wait upon her. She may own them in her own right, but more often her Moro husband must purchase them for her. As women slaves bring a higher price in the market than men, the drain on the husband's exchequer is immense.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Getting Rid of Etiquette.

Miss —— called at Cambridge cottage to take the princess' directions on a parish matter and was astonished to find her in the garden running round the flower beds as hard as she could go.

"Why are you running so fast, princess?" Miss —— ventured to inquire.

"To get rid of the etiquette," was the reply. "We have just had a visit from the emperor of ——."

Catching Rabbits.

Boys in Nebraska, a ferretless country, carry with them when hunting a coil of hose about an inch in diameter, which they pay out down a rabbit hole until the bottom is reached, meanwhile drawing the mouth of a sack over the hole. A cheerful shout down the hose brings the rabbit out at his best pace, plump into the sack. The hose evidently does the business as quickly as the ferret, with no vexatious delays.—San Francisco Argonaut.

DR PIERCE'S GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY
FOR THE BLOOD, LIVER, LUNGS.

Experience has shown to physicians that the majority of diseases have their origin in the derangement or disease of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. The stomach is the receptacle in which food is received and the laboratory in which it is prepared to nourish the different parts of the body. It prepares brain nourishment in one way, nerve nourishment in another, muscle nourishment in another. When the stomach is "out of order" these various forms of nourishment are only partly or imperfectly prepared, and nerve, muscle, or brain, as the case may be, is only partly fed, and the result is pain, which is Nature's protest and warning. The pain may be in the head or in the heart, but you must reach it through the stomach or you can't cure it. That is the philosophy on which Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is prepared. It has absolute control of the stomach and digestive and nutritive system. It cures diseases in head, heart, liver, lungs and other organs by curing the diseased condition of the stomach which prevents the proper nourishment of the various organs and corrupts them by its own diseased condition, in the partial nourishment it provides. In like manner "Golden Medical Discovery" purifies the blood, by purifying the stomach and other blood-making organs.

It contains no alcohol, or other intoxicant, and no narcotic.

Sores and Ulcers DRAIN THE SYSTEM, ENDANGER LIFE.

That old sore or ulcer, which has been a source of pain, worry and anxiety to you for five or ten years—maybe longer—doesn't heal because you are not using the proper treatment, but are trying to cure it with salves and washes. While these are soothing and relieve pain to some extent, no real, permanent good can come from their use, because the disease is in the blood and far beyond the reach of external applications.

A sore heals promptly when the blood is in good condition, but never if it is diseased. The tendency of these old sores and ulcers is to grow worse, spreading and eating deeper into the flesh. They are a constant drain upon the system, gradually but surely ruin the health and sap the very life. A person's capacity for work or pleasure is soon lost in the great desire and search for something to cure.

S. S. S. makes a rapid and permanent cure of old sores and ulcers, and is the only medicine that does, because no other can reach deep-seated blood troubles. Ordinary Sarsaparilla and potash mixtures are too weak and watery to overcome a deadly poison that has taken possession of the blood. Do not waste valuable time experimenting with them.

A Gunshot Wound. "Some years ago I was shot in the left leg, receiving what I considered only a slight wound. It developed into a running sore and gave me a great deal of pain. I was treated by many doctors, and took a number of blood remedies, but none did me any good. I had heard S. S. S. highly recommended and concluded to give it a trial. The result was truly gratifying. S. S. S. seemed to get right at the trouble, and forced the poison out of my blood; soon afterwards the sore healed up and was cured sound and well. I now have perfect use of the leg, which was swollen and very stiff for a long time. J. H. McBRAYER, Lawrenceburg, Ky."

S. S. S. is the only purely vegetable blood purifier known; is made of roots and herbs of wonderful purifying properties, which no poison can resist. S. S. S. quickly and effectually clears the blood of all morbid, unhealthy humors, and the old, troublesome sore heals. At the same time the general health is invigorated and built up. When a little scratch or hurt fails to heal readily, you may be sure your blood is bad. S. S. S. will soon put it in order and keep it so.

Our Medical Department is in charge of experienced physicians, who have made blood diseases a life study. If you will write them about your case, they will gladly furnish all information or advice wanted, without any charge whatever. Address SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

FRIDAY, MAY 18, 1900.

GET THE PRESIDENT TO COME.

The Charlotte Observer announces this morning that President McKinley has definitely stated that he will be unable to go to Charlotte on the 20th of May to attend the celebration of the Mecklenburg Declaration. A gentleman gives to the Observer an explanation of the President's declination, which the Observer calls a humorous one. He says that it is really a fear on the part of the President, suggested by some of his advisers, that his presence on the occasion would be a recognition of the validity of Mecklenburg's claim as to her Declaration, which claims are in especial dispute about Philadelphia and other points. We are not so sure that this explanation is so humorous as the Observer thinks.

The President is no doubt willing to visit North Carolina if he can do so conveniently. Why not make an effort to have him come to our Battle Ground celebration? At least the authenticity of the event of which this is the celebration cannot be doubted, and in this we are not expressing any doubts of Mecklenburg's event, which is a matter of State pride. The Guilford Battle Ground is a spot which has a very important place in our country's history and a spot that could very appropriately be visited by the chief magistrate of the country. Its importance and interest is shown, if other proof were lacking, by the fact that Washington himself visited the spot and carefully went over the field. And on the field rest the remains of two of the signers of the real Declaration. General Joe Wheeler will be here, and, altogether, we will have something better to invite the President to than did our Charlotte friends who came very near getting his promise to come.

If it is true, as we stated, that the President is not unwilling to visit North Carolina, should it be found convenient to do so, he could not accept a better time nor place. This point would give a better opportunity to the people of the State to see him than any other place. And the crowd that he would bring here would simply be enormous.

We will have Wheeler, let's try for the President, too.

PRETTY LITTLE STORY OF FIDELITY.

A great deal has been said concerning the wonderful projectile which has been invented by a Mr. Johnson, and which will penetrate anything. The secret of the construction of the shell, and the test of it by the government, have been zealously guarded by the navy department. The New York Sun now bobs up with a story that the invention was made four years ago and disclosed to a small party of men, who at the time were fishing in the Adirondacks. The party was pledged to secrecy, a pledge which was sacredly kept, says the Sun, until the disclosure by the government, when one of the party opened up and told the whole story.

In the party was the late Isaac Johnson, of Spuyten Duyvil, the head of the Johnson Iron Works, the concern which owns the patent on the new projectile. There were only eight or ten of them in all, including ex-Governor Lounsbury of Connecticut, John Denny of New York, and then Assemblyman Howard G. White, of Syracuse. Meachan Lake is probably as isolated a place as can be found in the Adirondack region. It is eighteen miles off the railroad, but connected with Malone, N. Y., by a private line of telegraph. That night Mr. Johnson received over this line from Malone a message from his son, who was in New York describing in some detail the results of a test of a shell invented by the younger Johnson, which had taken place at Indian Head under government auspices. It gave Mr. Johnson word of the entire success of the test. Naturally jubilant over the matter, Mr. Johnson could not refrain from giving the particulars to his companions, after binding them to secrecy.

Continuing, the narrator, who was the newspaper man of the party, says: "Mr Johnson was very frank in explaining the method of constructing the shell, and how his son had come to invent it. The original idea was not to pierce any kind of armor plate, but to make it possible to send a projectile through an armored turret when the target was at an angle. It had been found that no projectile would do damage to a turret unless fired 'dead on' at the arc of the turret. If fired off the arc, the projectiles invariably glanced off and did no harm. The Johnson shell was designed to do harm at any angle, and the test of March 9, 1896, showed it capable of doing this. This result was accomplished by putting a soft cap on the nose of the shell, and as Mr. Johnson expressed it, 'puttying' the point where the shell struck. The idea came from the knowledge that when a carpenter wanted to drive a nail into a piece of hard wood he first drove the nail into a piece of pine or some other soft wood, and thus created a firm impact. This was Mr. Johnson's explanation to his friends in the fishing party. To illustrate more clearly the construction of the shell, he drew with a pencil on the back of an envelope, a sketch which I marked with place and date and I have since carried in my pocketbook, thinking that some day it would be of interest. That time has come. The sketch shows the outline of an ordinary shell with the additional soft or 'puttying' piece, as Mr. Johnson described it on the point. The sketch is marked: 'Sketched by Isaac Johnson, at Meacham Lake, May 9, 1896.'"

Now this is indeed a pretty little story, and we can only regret that the elder Johnson could not have lived long enough to see how faithfully his confidence was respected. But we are led to ask, not, however, with any intention of spoiling this example of fidelity and proof of men's ability to keep a secret, but merely as a matter of curiosity, why the government had not before made use of its secret, especially since it has been through one war since the time this secret was disclosed to the party of faithful fishermen, and since the test made at that time by the government was found entirely satisfactory.

COCKRAN AT THE RACE CONVENTION

Hon. A. M. Waddell, who last evening was in Greensboro on his way from the Race Problem conference at Mantgomery, Ala., last week, had the distinction of being the only one of the twenty or more speakers at the conference who, with Bourke Cockran, spoke for the repeal of the 15th amendment. The conference was for the promotion of a free discussion of the negro question, and it was not intended that any resolutions should be passed. None were passed though some efforts to do so were made, but sat down upon. Of all the speakers only a few agreed as to the method of solving the problem. The whole conference amounted merely to a number of speeches on the negro in his various aspects, the only exception being that of Cockran. He spoke for two hours without notes. Of the speech, the special correspondent of the Atlanta Journal says:

As to Cockran's speech, there has never been an abler address delivered in Alabama. It was thoughtful, apparently sincere, clothed in the most beautiful language and delivered with great oratorical force. Col. C. R. Breckenridge, of Alabama, Ex-Secretary Herbert, of Washington, Colonel John Graves, of Atlanta, and others who have heard the famous Irishman on former occasions declare that the Montgomery speech was his masterpiece. The sentiment of the great gathering was ripe for it. They expected him to say just what he did say, but they did not expect that he would say it so well, and the agreeable surprise added to the enthusiasm. Cockran wore a little short, black coat, closely buttoned, and presented a unique appearance, as his sharp, cutting eyes surveyed slowly the throng of whites and then the black galleries of the auditorium before he would begin his speech. He was studying for a moment his audience and caught, no doubt, the inspiration of the occasion. "I was never more inspired in my life," he said to me after the address was over. "I never talked with more ease or enthusiasm, and I doubt if I ever made a better speech."

Cockran is certainly an interesting Irishman. He made some notable speeches in the campaign of 1896. Not long ago he made, perhaps, the most notable speech of the occasion at the Chicago trust conference, and now here he is down in Alabama in his little bob-tailed coat making a great speech before the Race Problem conference, and boldly declaring that the 15th amendment should be repealed.

The Spanish-American war veterans in the vicinity of Charlotte met yesterday and organized a camp. The next organization will be the sons of Spanish war veterans, which we may expect to see in the course of the year.

Yesterday we were told by Butler that his convention made the election of Mr. Bryan sure, and today we are informed by Wharton Barker that his own nomination by the middle-of-the-roaders, makes Bryan's defeat certain. Whom, oh whom, shall we trust?

The Philadelphia Record of yesterday has a very forcible cartoon on Senator Clark's trick. The Senator is politely bowing and holding up his resignation in one hand, and as it is being received, he turns the other hand behind his back and receives from a messenger boy his appointment. Under the picture is written, "A two-handed game as played by the man from Montana." And it is even so. It was two-handed jugglery and every body knows it.

Misses Iola and Alice Hilliard, of High Point, who formerly resided in Greensboro, spent the day here on their return from the Oxford Female Seminary commencement. Miss Iola is a student of the institution.

She Revoked the Rule.

Some time ago the czarina, a very philanthropic and religious woman, made up her mind that the lavish use of tobacco in Russia was doing harm. She thereupon prohibited the use of the weed, and especially of cigarettes, in the court.

A few days passed, and her imperial majesty needed some money. It did not come, even after she had sent a confidential servant to the treasury. At last, in place of money, came a white bearded old man from that institution, with pleasant voice and attractive address.

"There must be a mistake, your imperial majesty. Two weeks ago you prohibited the use of tobacco in the court, and so great is your influence and so deep the love for you among the people that the sales of the weed dropped down to a fraction of what formerly was the case, and the internal revenue receipts became less than the expenses. The government appreciated your high munificence because under the law of the land your income is charged against the tobacco tax of this district, and it was supposed that you had concluded to give up your wealth in order to carry out your views upon reform."

The following week, so the story goes, the rule was relaxed, and the czarina's sudden poverty vanished as if by magic.—Saturday Evening Post.

Made to Feel at Home.

One of the old time southern negroes went to Boston to make his fortune. After a week of walking up and down he found himself penniless and no work in sight. Then he went from house to house. "Ef you please, suh," he began when his ring at the front door was answered, "can't you give a po' cullud man work ter do or somepin ter eat?"

And the polite answer invariably was, "No, mister; very sorry, but have nothing for you."

Every one who answered his ring addressed him as "Mr.," but shut their doors and hearts against him.

Finally he rang the bell at a brown stone front. A gentleman appeared, and the old man began:

"Boss, I is starvin. Can't you gimme some vittles?"

"You darned, black, kinky headed rascal!" exclaimed the gentleman. "How dare you ring the bell at my front door? Go round the back yard way to the kitchen, and the cook'll give you something, you black"—

But just there the old man fell on his knees, exclaiming:

"Thank de Lawd, I foun' my own white folks at las'! Thank de Lawd, I foun' 'em—I done foun' 'em!"—Atlanta Constitution.

Effect of Her Singing.

The doting husband was discoursing on the beauty of his wife's voice. "She has a note of pathos in her voice," said he, "that will draw tears from the most hardened. I assure you I have heard her sing before a large audience, and when she has finished there has not been a dry eye in the room."

"Quite true," assented the cynic. "She always affects me that way. Even if she only says she's going to sing I weep bitterly."—Moonshine.

Bride's Little Brother (to bridegroom)—Did it hurt you much when she did it?

Bridegroom—What hurt me?

Bride's Little Brother—The hook. Did it go into your lip?

Bridegroom—I don't know what you mean, Johnny.

Bride's Mother—Leave the table this instant, Johnny!

Bride's Little Brother—What for? I only wanted to know if it hurt him. You said that sis had fished for him a long time, but she hooked him at last, and I wanted to know if—

Coronach is a name formerly used for the funeral dirge among the Irish and Scottish highlanders. The dirge, disused in Scotland, is in Ireland commonly known as the "keen."

HE BET ON THE SEVEN

A GAMBLER'S SCHEME THAT WORKED WELL FOR AWHILE.

He Forgot One Very Important Thing, However, and His Last Plunging Wager Brought Ruin and Tragedy In Its Wake.

A gentleman who lives in the Blue Grass and who has been a very extensive traveler has a silver service so magnificent in design and heavy in weight that its peers in the whole world may be numbered on the fingers of one hand. The owner is even now, when past middle age, a "good fellow," who loves conviviality, and no game is too hazardous for him if he has the amount of the stakes. He takes pleasure in telling the history of his service, as it concerns the most audacious game of chance he ever witnessed.

"When I was in Bolivia some years ago," he always begins, "I got in with a crowd of men, English and natives, whose passion for gambling knew no bounds. Strange as it may seem, none of them knew poker, and I made myself solid with them by teaching them, but their great game was roulette.

"There was a little shop in Bogota, where they had a miniature Monte Carlo, and many nights did we spend around the great wheel, with our money and prospects hanging on the black or red. The wheel was entirely made of wood, and when it was spun around a cover was put over the machine so that they could keep on betting when it had ceased to turn.

"There is a worm down there in that climate that gets into furniture and bores until nothing but a shell is left. You may sit on a chair that looks perfectly strong, but at the first touch it collapses. This seems irrelevant, but it is not, as you may see later. In fact, that worm plays the title role in the tragedy I am going to tell.

"There was a wealthy Bolivian planter who had been a general in the war between Bolivia and Chile back in the early eighties. He was never absent a night from our games, but he would frequently stand about for a week and never make a bet larger than $10. Then he would suddenly cry out just as the operator was about to lift the cover and register the highest bet the house would permit. Next he would place all the money he could find takers for among the gentlemen present. Before the season was far advanced he had won great sums, and we had all felt the results of his freakish luck. It seemed that when he played 7—black he could not lose, and he seemed to realize it, for when he did call that number he would put all he owned in the balance.

"Still he was a gentleman and a famous duelist, and no one cared to question his methods. It went on this way for two months. Then one night the wheel stopped, and there was the silence of the prairies in the room. We could hear the ball fall into the compartment distinctly. We could hear the distant tinkling of a mandolin. The planter leaped up as from a catalepsy: 'Seven—black, senores. I will take all any of you or all of you will bet.' Well, I had been winning strong and was so much to the good that I was reckless.

"'Five dollars,' I said.

"'Good, senor,' he replied.

"He placed his entire fortune in different wagers. There were a number of strangers present, and they all seemed big flush. Then slowly, as a priest officiating at some solemn, barbaric ceremony, the banker removed the top. We all stood for a moment, and the tension was such that a carriage wheel on the cobblestones outside made us all start. 'Red,' came the announcement.

"The Bolivian was white as snow, but his voice was unshaken as he said: 'Gentlemen, you shall all be paid. As for me, I am ruined.'

"That night he shot himself, and his will, which had been written just before his death, arranged for the payment of all his debts. I was to receive the service for my share, though it is worth much more. But what I valued much more than that was a note in which he expressed his attachment for me and asked me to accept the silver as a gift and not a debt.

"He left also a curious manuscript, written some time before, which seemed to be a sort of private journal. He stated in this that his ears were so accurate that he could detect the difference between the fall of a pin and a needle. One night, so he says, he heard the ball fall into the compartment with a hollow thud, and when the machine was opened he made note of the number and color, '7—black.' Later, when alone for a moment, he found that the aforesaid worm had bored under that compartment. He sounded the excavation with a straw and found that it extended no farther than that one number. Then all he had to do was to listen and when his acute hearing told him that his number had come to get all the money possible on it.

"Yes, gentlemen, he had all his plans laid to perfection. There was only one weak spot in his calculations. He forgot that those worms could keep on boring."—Louisville Evening Post.

WINE OF CARDUI

How a Woman Suffers.

HOWELL, IND., Nov. 28.
I will always praise Wine of Cardui. It has done me more good than all the medicines I have ever taken in my life. Please send a book about female diseases to the ladies whose names I enclose.
Mrs. MINNIE STODGHILL.

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui

It isn't necessary for a woman to give particulars. When she says she has "female troubles", other women know what that means. It means days and nights of endless suffering. It means headaches which no tongue can describe. It means that terrible bearing and dragging down in the lower abdomen. It means agonizing backache, and shoulder ache, and arm ache, and aches in the lower limbs. It means nerves on edge—the blues— despondency and loss of hope. It means debilitating drains that the doctors call leucorrhœa. It means martyrdom—sometimes even death seems preferable. And still Wine of Cardui will utterly put those diseases and pains to rout. It has cured thousands of cases when nothing else on earth would. To the budding woman, to the bride, to the wife, to the expectant mother, to those going through the Change of Life, this Vegetable Wine is a blessing.

The Tale of a Cake.

An east end car was loaded down with shoppers, mostly women, for it was in the middle of the afternoon. Conversation was proceeding at a great rate. It was like a pink tea or a session of the sewing circle. But all at once a hush fell over the fair chatterers. A negro lad entered, bearing in his arms an immense cake three or four decks high and frosted over from pit to dome, as they say of a theater. There was a profusion of flowers by way of decoration, and delicate traceries of gauzy lace completed the embellishments. The cake was so large that the negro could scarcely carry it.

The cake told the whole story of the wedding, the bridesmaids, the orange flowers, the flower girls and the banquet afterward. Every feminine heart in that street car was a-flutter as its owner gazed speechlessly upon the evidence of a wedding to be.

Finally, when the car stopped to let on another passenger and everything was very still, one lady took courage to ask the negro where the wedding was going to be.

"Whut weddin?" asked the negro, his eyes protruding.

"The wedding that cake is for."

"Dis ain't no weddin cake."

"No?"

"No'm. Dis yere's er cake walk cake."

There was a smile that reached from one end of the car to the other, and very soon conversation was resumed as before.—Memphis Scimitar.

It Was Red and Costly.

The most expensive dinner of modern times was given some years ago at the Savoy hotel, London, by a millionaire who has since met with an untimely end. It was known as the "red dinner" from the fact that almost everything in the dining room was red in color. All the floral decorations were red, the electric lamps were red, the knives were specially made with red handles, the chairs were red, the carpet was red, the table napkins were red and even the waiters wore red ties. The reason of this color predominating was that the millionaire had experienced a wonderful run of luck and had won a large sum of money through red turning up on the rouge et noir table at Monte Carlo. The winning figure was nine, and this figure was also in evidence at the dinner.

The menu card was unique. On the first page was a large red nine, and on the back page was a portrayal of the top of a rouge et noir gaming table. The menu itself, which was printed in red letters, consisted of 18 courses, all of the most expensive character.

Forty guests sat down to the table, and the cost of this extraordinary dinner was over $65 for each person.—Everybody's Magazine.

Can't Leave Wall Street.

Speaking of the fascination which Wall street exerts over those who have once entered its speculative arena, a newspaper man said:

"In one of the largest commission brokerage establishments in Wall street at the noon hour I found scores of brokers, both old and young, feverishly scanning the quotations. I singled out a patriarchal looking broker, a pioneer on 'change.

"'Can a man retire from Wall street?' I asked him.

"'You bet he can,' the old man replied, 'when he's flat broke. That's the only kind of a man I've ever known to "retire" from Wall street during an experience of nearly 40 years. Of course if he can raise a few dollars he'll be right back again.

"'Then there's the man who has cleaned up a neat little fortune on some clever deal and taken a solemn oath never to come near the "street" again. He always comes back.

"'I knew one man, however, who really did quit. He is the exception that proves the rule, but he never had courage to come down town farther than Fourteenth street. The magnet failed to touch him at that distance.'"

AN ANCIENT BELIEF.

The ancients believed that rheumatism was the work of a demon within a man. Any one who has had an attack of siatic or inflammatory rheumatism will agree that the affliction is demoniac enough to warrant the belief. It has never been claimed that Chamberlain's Pain Balm would cast out demons, but it will cure rheumatism, and hundreds bear testimony to the truth of this statement. One application relieves the pain, and this quick relief which it affords is alone worth many times its cost. For sale by C. E. Holton, Druggist.

Ant Engineers.

Something new and interesting about ants was learned by a Mount Airy florist recently. For a week or so he had been bothered by ants that got into boxes of seeds which rested on a shelf. To get rid of the ants he put into execution an old plan, which was to place a meaty bone close by, which the ants soon covered, every one deserting the boxes of seeds. As soon as the bone would become thickly inhabited by the little creepers the florist tossed it into a tub of water. The ants having been washed off, the bone was put in use as a trap again.

Then the florist bethought himself that he would save trouble by placing the bone in the center of a sheet of fly paper, believing that the ants would never get to the bone, but would get caught on the sticky fly paper while trying to reach the food. But the florist was surprised to find that the ants, upon discovering the nature of the paper trap, formed a working force and built a path on the paper clear to the bone. The material for the walk was sand secured from a little pile near by. For hours the ants worked, and when the path was completed they made their way over its dry surface in couples, as in a march, to the bone.—Philadelphia Record.

Humors of Organ Blowers.

An Irishman had been obtained at a pinch to blow an organ. The player was ready and the signal was given, but no wind came. The signal was repeated a second time, and again a third time, but still without result. The delay was becoming awkward, the congregation was getting uneasy. What was to be done? Choristers and organist now united in shouts of "Blow! blow! blow!" Not the slightest zephyr stirred within the wind chest.

At length the organist hastened to the blower's sanctum. And what a sight it was that met his eyes! Clinging with heels and hands to the long wooden handle of the bellows, there hung the son of Erin, his eyes starting from their sockets and his cheeks distended and crimson, blowing as if for dear life into the end of that long wooden handle!

The anecdote of the ex-sailor blower is not so funny, but it is in keeping. The old tar when he went to blow took off his boots and his coat and, if it were warm, nearly everything else, "for," said he in explanation, "I can 'old on better."—Longman's.

DOES IT PAY TO BUY CHEAP?

A cheap remedy for conghs and colds is all right, but you want something that will relieve and cure the more severe and dangerous results of throat and lung troubles. What shall you do? Go to a warmer and more regular climate? Yes, if possible; if not possible for you, then in either case take the only remedy that has been introduced in all civilized countries with success in severe throat and lung troubles, "Boschee's German Syrup." It not only heals and stimulates the tissues to destroy the germ disease, but allays inflammation, causes easy expectoration, gives a good night's rest, and cures the patient. Try one bottle. Recommended many years by all druggists in the world. For sale by Grissom & Fordham.

"DANGER IN THE EARTH AND AIR; DANGER EVERYWHERE."

A Wise and Venerable Doctor Talks about Advanced Science.

In a leading hotel, in a great city, a famous and aged physician was conversing. Listening to his wise and sententious discourse, were a group of well dressed men, evidently lawyers, business men and commercial travelers.

My firm belief, is "that medical science is certain yet to show that all diseases without exception are caused by invisible germs which are living organisms. Here is the germ of that terrible disease diphtheria. Here is the bacillus of typhoid fever; and here is the still more dreadful bacillus of tubercle which causes that most destructive of all diseases, consumption. This of that very common and supposed incurable disease, catarrh."

"I wish, Doctor," said the traveling man, "that you would tell us about catarrh. I have had it for years, and I am thoroughly discouraged."

The Doctor answered. "Catarrh, like diphtheria, consumption, typhoid fever, and a host of other diseases, is the result of a microbe invading the blood and attacking specially the mucous membrane. This foul and most disgusting disease is especially prevalent in the United States and it is rare to meet one who is not, or has not been troubled more or less with it. How often is he or she obliged to remain at home from pleasant entertainments, deprive themselves of many intellectual treats, from fear of the disagreeable odor arising from catarrhal affections. In its worst phase, the patient becomes loathsome both to himself and his friends.

"I believe," continued this great physician, "that the true way to heal catarrh is to medicate the blood. This can be done only by powerful alteratives which act as blood purifiers."

Betsy A. Marett, of Manistee, Manistee Co., Mich., writes:

Dear Sirs:—For ten years I was a sufferer from general debility and chronic catarrh. My face was pale as death. I was weak and short of breath. I could hardly walk, I was so dizzy and had a ringing in my head all the time. My hands and feet were always cold. My appetite was very poor. On getting up in the morning, my head swam so I was often obliged to lie down again. I had awful pains in the small of my back. I had a continual feeling of tiredness. My muscular power was almost entirely gone, and I couldn't go half a dozen steps without stopping to rest, and often that much exercise caused me to have a pain in my side. It seemed as though the blood had left my veins. The doctors said my blood had all turned to water. I had given up all hope of ever getting well. I tried the best physicians in the state, but failed to get any relief. My husband got me a bottle of Johnston's Sarsaparilla. I took it, and then I bought another. When these had been used, I was somewhat improved in health. I continued its use, and felt I was growing stronger; my sleep was refreshing, and it seemed as if I could feel new blood moving through my veins. I kept on taking it, and now consider myself a well and rugged woman. I work all the time, and am happy. I am positive that the Sarsaparilla saved my life. The sick headaches I have had since childhood, have disappeared, and my catarrh has almost entirely left me. I cannot be too thankful for what Johnston's Sarsaparilla has done for me. I recommend all women who have sick headaches to use your Sarsaparilla.

FOUND BETWEEN SHOWERS.

Items Taken Out of the Weather and Put in Place.

Encourage the firemen by attending and patronizidg their lawn party in the Banner Warehouse tonight.

The Daughters of the Confederacy will meet tomorrow afternoon at five o'clock instead of four, at the usual place.

On account of the funeral of Mr. Richard Fitzmaurice, Mr. Clarence R. Brown will not meet his vocal pupils tomorrow.

Attractive young ladies will serve delicious cream, cake and strawberries at the firemen's lawn party in the Banner Warehouse tonight.

Of all the neat and up-to-date delivery wagons, Hiatt & Lamb have one of the nicest in town. It has just been completed and put into use.

The clerk of the Federal Court today received an order from Judge Ewart discharging Mr. James E. Walker of Asheboro, from bankruptcy.

A letter received from Dr. Edmund Harrison announced that he and Dr. Baum had completed their examinations before the State Medical Board at Tarboro.

The mechanical department of the colored Agricultural and Mechanical College has a most creditable exhibit in one of the Vanstory Clothing Company's show windows.

Mr. Bain had hoped to begin work on the new city hall today, but was unable to do so on account of some misunderstanding as to tearing down the fence surrounding the old jail lot.

Rev. Dr J. C. Rowe has been engaged to preach the commencement sermon at Liberty Normal College Sunday. Prof. J. Y. Joyner will deliver the annual address next Tuesday evening.

Mr. Roscoe Mitchell, who has been spending some time at Republican headquarters in this city, has resigned as one of the vice-presidents of the Young Men's National Republican League.

On account of the threatening weather, the firemen's lawn party tonight will be held in the Banner Warehouse. The building is large and roomy and will afford ample accommodations to a large crowd.

Democratic County Chairman Scales announces that the silver tongued orator of the Cape Fear, Col. A. M. Waddell, mayor of the city of Wilmington, will speak in Greensboro on Thursday, June 7th, during the mid-day recess of court.

'Squire Wolfe tried only one of the the cases against the Proximity Manufacturing Company yesterday—that of J. B. Underwood, which was dismissed. The suit brought by A. M. Garwood is being investigated this afternoon.

The farmers are rejoicing more over the showers the lawn party season brings about, no doubt, than the parties who give these pleasant summer entertainments. Do you look for another shower next Wednesday when the Altar Guild of St. Barnabas church intends giving a a fete?

Bits of News For Both.

Two girls met in a dry goods store the other day. They had evidently not seen each other for some time, as the trend of their conversation proved.

"What good times we used to have at the lake!" said one.

"Yes, I like our own resorts," replied the other, "better than on the coast. Oh, say, where is my old flame Perry? I think the world of that boy."

"Oh, he's married!"

"You don't say! Who to?"

"Me."

"Well, of all things!" replied her friend, flushing.

The conversation drifted, but a short time later reverted to its old channel.

"Say, Hetty," remarked Perry's wife, "did you meet Johnny —— out in San Francisco?" and then added, "He told me that summer he was there that he could not live without me."

"Yes, I met him in Los Angeles."

"Poor fellow! I feel sorry for him. He is a bachelor yet, I suppose?"

"No; he's married."

"You don't say! Who to?"

"Me."—Salt Lake Herald.

The Eternal City.

In a recent lecture on Rome Mr. Frederic Harrison said that the great value of the city of Rome, from the point of view of general culture and education, was that it had by far the longest and most complete history of any city in the world. It had three great qualities as the center of human culture and the development of human civilization. It was the center of the ancient world for many centuries, it became the center of the early Christian world and for 1,000 years it had been the center of religious pilgrimages, while for four or five centuries it had been the center of poetry and art of the modern world. These three great epochs together made up something like 3,000 years, and no city in the world had had so continuous a life. Hardly a century passed without leaving its memorial in Rome.—London Globe.

The Loggerhead's Name.

"The loggerhead turtle," said an old fisherman, "gets its name from the resemblance of its head and neck, under some circumstances, to the end of a log. You take a big turtle, one weighing, say, 600 or 800 pounds, at sea, with its body submerged and head and neck out of the water, and they look at a little distance just like the end of a log sticking up. Hence the name loggerhead."—New York Sun.
